" What are opsoning?" " Le dernier cri' in medicine. A method of fighting disease by rendering bacteria appetising." In the laboratories of London hospitals much patient and unostentations work is now being done to turn this paradex into a twentieth century miracle. It is one Metchnikoffs discovery of the work done by the white corpuseles in the blood that the foundation rests.

THE WHITE WAR.

Fresh Light on the New Medical Discovery.

In every cubic millimetre in every pin . head-of blood is a population of five millions of the red blood corpuscles that carry the life-giving oxygen from the lungs to the further-most recesses of the body. The five millions of tiny red discs are the workers, the wealth producers of this miniature London---this "Corpuscio City." let us call it. They are fitted for the labours of peace alone, and in no way do they act as defenders of their city. The duty of policing "Corpuscle City" is carried out by five thousand white corpuscies - tiny specks of jelly like matter. whose work in the blood is summed up 20 in the words " Arrest all vagrents!" The mothed of arrest is primitive, but exceed ingly effective: the white empression day is the offending microbes. All this has been known for some years now, and it forms merely the jumping off ground for the modern expeditions of discovery. It has been found that the raids of unligant bacteris into the body have not only met by the actual fighting work of the "white police. There are other protective agencies at work. The blood itself, the clear liquid in which the red and white corpuedes float contains in visible substances in solution which act in very remarkable ways for the protection of Imagine a host of muligrant microbes a gang of ruthless poisoners, let us say set free to distribute their venous through the liquid atmosphere of "Corpuscle City In cases of what we may call the every day microbes, they are at once attacked by the "white police" and devoured. But there are other virulent kinds which are dealt with by different and very poculiar protective agencies. There are, as it were, substances in the atmosphere of the City that are innocuous to the inhabitant but injuried to intruders. The microbes are "tied hand and foot. Those are invisible substances in the blood that have the peculiar power of "clump ing "together the bacteria, and so prevent ing them from moving about freely. In typhoid fever, for instance, the action of the "agglutinins" is strongly marked.

The microbes are also dissolved away 'Bacteriolysius" is the name applied to substances in the blood which possess this Bangkok, Sa.gon, Haiphong, Hanoi, Amoy, property. The process corresponds roughly Yokohama, Kobe, Melbourne, Sydney, though, of course, the "bacteriolysins" have no resemblance whatever to vitriol. In the treatment of typhoid fever - enterie fever- by prevention, such as was employed during the Boer war to render our soldiers "immune," the idea is to increase the quantity of natural "agglutinins" and "bacteriolysins" in the blood by certain methods of injection.

The microbes are poisoned off. Strangely enough, it seems at present as if this "hactericidal" method were only of limited

The microbes are rendered appetising for the "white police." This extraordinary property is possessed by invisible constituents of the blood termed "opsonins," and it appears probably in the present state of our knowledge that the protective action of "opsonins" is the most important and generally employed of all the natural methods of defence roughy indicated in this 1379 article. Photographs taken from research experiments show conclusively that the "white police" will devour bacilli such as those of the deadly anthrax when made appetising by the action of an "opsonin," but will remain in contact with the "unprepared bacillus without "stretching out a finger" to capture it. If doctors can produce in the blood an good the Commission's report, when submitted, would produce. Financial minute No 83, for the sum of $600, was to cover the cost of various damages done by the typhoons on Saptema ber 18th and 29th. The motion was carried and the minutes of several divisions in the big hall was commented on in last year's report. In the other rooms the boys are arranged in solid squares, a formation calculated to save all but the outside rank and file from sudden or casual inspection. There is no provision for the proper ventilation of the Class rooms, when the weather is too-cold to admit of opening of many windows. Only one room has a fire piece. Single or dual deska adaptable to the stature of the pupils are used in all well equipped schools. Many of the rooms are badly lighted, both as to the quantity of the light and its direction. Many of the rooms are over-crowded. After the upsatisfactory nature of the desks, the most obvious deficiency is the lack of wall maps and pictures. Maps are kept in a separate room, and have to be sent for when required. This may prove a saving of wear and tear; but it is a false economy from an educational point of view. FINANCE COMMITTEE.

of Christian Science in regard to mortal mind is unintelligible nonsense." Without any help, therefore, f om this excursion to "mortal mind," we must return and come to a conclusion regarding matter.

The contrast between matter and mind is palpable to all. Matter, as commonly understood appeals to the five senses, mind is invisible, cannot be handled, stc., They have appeared so irreconcilable, that many have denied one or the other. Mrs Eddy chooses to deny matter. in doing it, she conveys the impresslop that, concerning the mind's relation to matter she is in the crudest stage of thought. No one here would dream of patting it as though we could only redisc a book, as actually existing; by having the book, as a lump of matter, flung into the thinking mind. Of matter, in that way, we of course, are not conscious; it does not exist for us. It would be altogether beyond our range to attempt to analyse matter and it would be tedious to you to quote physical theories showing, along mental and spiritual lines, the affinity between mind and matter; but that matter exists, we know, by minnelly intelligible me us. five hodily sense are transmitted to the mind: impressions of consciousness, these sensations are received, discriminated and classified : thus the objects of the cuter world are known by the operation of the mind itself. Masses of matter thrown into the thinking mind is an absurd way of regarding the connection and in the absence of this, it is absurd to deny the reality of matter. So far as we are concerned, the reality of matter is entirely the result of mental process andthat alone.

The deeper thought goes on this subject the more does it appear that matter is an expression of mind, and that these two opposites may an exist without the sacrifice of either in the interests of unity Though all unknown, apparently, to Mrs i ddy, the most modern Physical Scientists are afford ing wonderful glimpses into the relation between mind and matter, regarding them both as petualities. In view of even lithear, the audacious samoonement that 'Christian Science reveals nothing in Spirit out of which to create matter," (278), is seen to be one of those presumptuous! assertions which often comes from minds that do not penetrate beneath the surface, and which, by their audacity, often lead captive the busy or unreflecting. Having had the first information that: clan fight of a most serious usture was about to take place in a vicinity some miles from Kongmoon, the CHINA MAIL sent me to the front to gather first-hand information. gathered a few necessury articles and boarded the river steamer. He advised that if a padoga was built, the storms would no longer frequent the vicinity, the poisonous fish would cease to exist, and the value of the place with regard to fungaci would be greatly increased. His advice was at once acted upon, the pagoda was built, and it is said the evils have since been mysteriously removed. The man Lo Ban, who up to this day is looked upon by masons and sent abroad at the expense of the Governcarpenters as their saint, is said to have ordered that the pagoda should never grow old, but that it should always that it should fall, through - it might decay; and this day, it is very strange, it does look new when seen at a distance, In view of this fiasco, we are emboldered although it has been built for hundreds war, in company with the officer in charge of years. It was a perfect picture of peace, and where were the fights? This place, a fellow-native-passenger informed me, was ten years ago the battlefield in which thousands of persons were killed. The number of deaths were entered in the death-rolls on either side, the indemnity being paid at the rate of so many hundred slight consternation on board, but the dollars a person. It has been estimated that palm-leaf fans yield something over 83,000,000 a year, on account of the vast demand for the articles throughout the UUIVITAIN Chinese Empire and abroad. Tobaccogrowing is also paying. The product is mostly monopolised by the Chu Cheong Lan. Chu Vau Lan, Lo Ki Sang and others who have branches in Kongmoen and House, which was built in European style. > Perhaps San Wui is the most up to-date of all cities in South China with regard to the teaching of modern learning. Since the abolition by Imperial Edict last year of literary examinations, no fewer than nine modern colleges have been established, I was fed to a passenger buck (cory smongst which may be mentioned the Sai Nam College, which occupies a very large area in the middle of San Wei City. By the THEY ARE courtesy of Lim Tsz Kau, who is one of the founders of the college, I was shown every part of the interior of the building, which is divided into many airy rooms. The arrangements and system of teaching are excellent. The subjects, which are taught abroad, are a follow ; -

Chemistry by Lim Kwok Kong, graduate from Japan; Drilling by Ho Kiu Ngon, Military College, Canton; Mathematics by Kwon Shek Wing; Chinese literature, by Wn Kiu Ling, B.A., Li Chun Wah, B.A., and Lim Man Chung, B.A.; and English, by Ip Tat Cho, of Singapore. After inspecting this College, which is managed and maintained by the people of the South West of the district and which has been sanctioned by the Educational Department of Canton, the writer was shown over the other colleges, one of which is maintained by the officials of the City.

A CONFUCIUR TEMPLE. The next place of call was a Confucius temple, which is a tremendous building the statue of Confucius, measuring from seven to eight feet high, and on either side of this statue, are placed the tablets of all China's men of character. As a rule, common people were not allowed to offer respects to the sage; but this rule has recently been abolished, for on the 27th day of the 8th Moon, which is the anniversity of the birth day of Confucius, hundreds of thousands of citizens assembled at the temple in which a ceremony was being carried out by the district officials. In front of the statue are two majestic looking stone lions. Inside there are many reserved departments, now converted into class rooms for the teaching of modern learning. It may be mentioned that students who pass their courses here are sent to the Colleges at Canton, from which, after a term of years, they will be ment for higher instruction.

MANGEUVRES IN THE CITY. On the 27th day of the 8th moon, students of the nine colleges, to the number of seven hundred, were ordered out to the Eastern Parade ground for manceuvres, at which the district-magistrate, a Mr Lin, a grandson of the late Lin Chak Tsoi, who was Vicercy of Canton during the opium of the military forces, was present.

It was undoubtedly very interesting to pagoda of Canton is also said to have been the officials to see the students marching forward and backward with all the martial air of a well-drilled ampy, when they received commands from their military instructor, and in spite of a very hot day, leclare the accumulation of wealth by the officials remained at the Parade ground for several hours exposing themselves to the sun all the time. Evidently they have any foreign drilled soldiers.
